

Michael T. Nigro, a partner and founder of Nigro, Westfall & Gryska, P.C., has practiced construction law for over 40 years. Mike represents many construction equipment and material suppliers, subcontractors, general contractors, and commercial and residential owners in all aspects of construction law. Mike has successfully resolved hundreds of construction disputes through mediations, arbitrations, and trials. He also is an arbitrator on the Construction Arbitration panel for the American Arbitration Association and has arbitrated many construction disputes.

Mike is a co-author of chapters in two authoritative construction law books widely used by attorneys: Turner on Illinois Mechanics Liens and Illinois Construction Law Manual. He has also co-authored articles on construction law published in the Illinois Bar Journal, the DuPage Brief and CRCA Today. Mike continues to be a frequent speaker on construction law before various construction industry groups. Mike is a member of the Illinois State Bar Association, Seventh Circuit Federal Trial Bar, and the Society of Illinois Construction Attorneys, whose membership is by invitation only.